THE DEAD MONEY KING.

Jay Gould's Funeral to Be at His House Next Monday.

BURIAL TUESDAY AT WOODLAWN

Official Action of Western Union and Manhattan "L" Directors.

MISS HELEN GOULD IS NOT ILL.

Probable Successors to Mr. Gould in the Management of His Great Properties.

but it is said on good authority that none but the immediate members of the family will attend.
All the locomotives on the Elevated railroad lines in the city were draped with black and white streamers in honor of Mr. Gould, the President of the corporation. These draperies will remain on the motors until after the funeral.

The Services at the Tomb.
Members of Mr. Gould's family and a few friends will follow the body to Woodlawn Tuesday in carriages, not more than ten in number. The hour of departure from the house has not yet been fixed. Rev. Mr. MacCracken will read the committal service of the Episcopal Church at the mausoleum.

MISS HELEN GOULD.

At the funeral Monday afternoon, the relatives and the immediate friends of the family will be admitted by invitation cards. They will enter by way of Edwin Gould's house, adjoining his father's mansion on the Forty-seventh street side.

The front doors of the mansion will be thrown open to the public, but it has not yet been decided whether the public shall be permitted to view the features of the dead man.
Miss Helen Gould Not Ill.
The report in a morning paper that Miss Helen Gould was prostrated and seriously ill on account of her father's death was denied at the house this morning.

The ceremony will be in charge of ex-Judge John F. Dillon, one of Mr. Gould's closest friends, and Dr. Munn, the long-time physician and intimate associate of Mr. Gould.

The arrangements for the funeral of Jay Gould are thus announced to-day: Services will be held at the house, 579 Fifth avenue, Monday at 4 o'clock P. M.

The funeral will be in charge of ex-Judge John F. Dillon, one of Mr. Gould's closest friends, and Dr. Munn, the long-time physician and intimate associate of Mr. Gould.

SPREE NOW SAFE IN HARBOR.

Towed Into Queenstown by the Steamship Lake Huron.

She Broke Her Shaft and Had to Turn Back.

A cablegram from London to-day says that the North German Lloyd steamship Spree, Capt. Carey, from Montreal Nov. 19 for Liverpool, passed Kinsale at 11:30 this morning. The Spree signaled that her shaft was broken.

The Spree is now safe in harbor at Queenstown. Scores of anxious relatives of the passengers aboard the overdue Spree visited the officers of the company and howled over this morning to make inquiries for the belated vessel.

Notwithstanding the assurance of Superintendent of the Passenger Department Gustav H. Schwab that nothing more serious than a mishap to the machinery could have occurred, the vessel was greatly apprehended for the safety of the vessel until a cablegram from the agent at Bremen was received stating that the Spree was reported in tow of a British vessel off Kinsale head, Ireland.

The cablegram was shown to all inquirers and it seemed to greatly relieve their anxiety. The Spree sailed from Southampton at 5 P. M. Nov. 23 and was due in this port Wednesday.

She had 350 saloon and cabin and 150 steerage passengers aboard. Among the passengers are: A. Ballie Grosman, Gen. G. O. Howard, United States Army; Mrs. Adeline Howard, wife of Gen. Howard of Baltimore, Md.; Dwight L. Moody, the evangelist; W. P. Moody, of Northfield, Mass.; Mrs. Marie Ambrosius, of Cleveland, O.; Mrs. G. S. Benedict and daughter, of Philadelphia; Henry Bium, Jr.; Frederick Jacobs, of Savannah, Ga.; Henry Borgstede, of Kansas City, Mo.; Louis Branch and family, of Milwaukee, Wis.; J. Blumenthal, of El Paso, Tex.; C. P. Davidson, Mrs. Maria Davidson and children, of San Antonio, Tex.; E. A. Fiedler, Dr. Sydney Kuh, of Chicago; Theodore Groot, of Savannah, Ga.; Mrs. M. L. Merriman, of Boston; Carl Klein Schmidt and Mrs. E. Klein Schmidt, of Cleveland, O.; Mrs. M. M. Marois and children, of St. Francis, Mo.; Mrs. Sutherland and daughter, of Winnipeg, Man.; R. T. Taylor, of Cincinnati, O.; Count Keyserling, of Vienna; Countess Cuenbroek, of Paris, and Iustus King and family, of Albany, N. Y.

The Spree is a beautifully proportioned, powerful vessel and is only 18 months old. She was built by the Vulcan Iron Company at Suetin, Germany. The engines are triple expansion, 15,000 horse-power, and she is capable of making 18 knots an hour in ordinary weather.

The agents felt every confidence in her and she is believed to be in a position to withstand almost any accident likely to occur. They contended from the beginning that a break in the machinery was responsible for the delay, and that she would be heard from in due time with all on board safe.

YALE-PRINCETON CONTRACTS.

Mr. Gibson's "Ad" Probably Related to Business with Advertisers.
An advertisement was published this morning announcing the loss of Yale and Princeton contracts and calling for their return to Room 133 at 29 Broadway. John B. Gibson, who has his office there, was not in when a reporter called to-day.

Tracy H. Harris, of the Committee on Tickets to the Yale-Princeton game, said: "Mr. Gibson made a contract with the managers of both teams for the privilege of publishing the official programme of the game. He paid for that privilege and he publishes the programme, but the deal in that respect is all completed and he can have no use now for the contract that gave him the programme rights. The programme will be published in the usual manner."
"He probably means the contracts made between advertisers on the programme and the publisher."

THE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE.

To Be Transmitted to the House and Senate on Tuesday.
WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—The President has spent his entire time to-day in his private office, revising the draft of his annual message to Congress.

The members of his Cabinet conferred with him during the day in regard to the topics considered in the message specially relating to their respective departments. The message and accompanying documents will be transmitted to both houses of Congress next Tuesday.

SCOWS TO GO TO SEA TO-DAY.

Hart's Island Crib Does Not Relieve Brennan's Department.
Street Cleaning Commissioner Brennan said this morning that the crib at Hart's Island, which the Commissioners of Charities and Correction informed him he could use for a dumping ground, would relieve the garbage blockade very little. Only one scow led a day, he said, can be dumped at Hart's Island. Several scows will be sent to sea to-day, the weather permitting.

Inspecting Northern Pac. Co.

TACOMA, Wash., Dec. 3.—A special committee of Northern Pacific stockholders, who are to make criticisms and suggestions regarding the management, arrived last night. The party includes Frank J. Conroy, Sr., W. J. Rogers, New York; Manager Nelson and Chief Engineer Kendrick. It is understood here that the committee will report to the directors who oppose Henry Villard's management.

Claimed to Be Napoleon's Son.
FINDLAY, Pa., Dec. 3.—Paul Jordan died at the county infirmary yesterday. He always declared that he was an illegitimate son of Napoleon Bonaparte, and that he was born at the battle of Waterloo. He was taken to Egypt with Napoleon and that he was captured by the Turks and afterwards sold to the Emperor of Russia. He was banished to St. Helena.

Messenger Bagley Arraigned.
DAVENPORT, Ia., Dec. 3.—George J. Bagley, the United States Express messenger, who appropriated a package of money from a 1,000,000 Nov. 18 and afterwards fled, is pleaded not guilty yesterday in the District court.

EDITOR KILLED BY HIS WIFE.

Son of Col. A. P. Boyd, Once Vice-President of the Pennsylvania.
SEATTLE, Dec. 3.—Thomas Henderson Boyd, editor of the Olympian, at Olympia, was shot at late hour last night by his wife, who lives here.

Boyd came here from Olympia yesterday and spent the evening in a saloon drinking. About 10:30 his wife came after him and took him home in a hack. Thirty minutes later she shot him.

Boyd was the son of Col. A. P. Boyd, of Philadelphia, at one time Vice-President of the Pennsylvania Railroad. Boyd, who was thirty-five years of age, came to Tacoma about four years ago, engaging in newspaper work, afterwards going to Olympia, where he bought the Olympian.

He was a fluent writer and a man of excellent address. His wife says she shot him because he had ceased to love her.

GIUSSON COMMITTED.

The Fruit-Seller's Victim Is in a Dangerous Condition.
Barthold Giusson, an Italian fruit-seller, who has a stand at Fourteenth street and Eighth avenue, was charged in Jefferson Market Police court this morning with having struck an unknown drunken man over the head with a club, inflicting injuries from which the victim is believed to be in a dangerous condition in Bellevue Hospital.

Justice Ryan committed Giusson to await the result of the medical findings before being given to Bishop Potter for the new Protestant Episcopal Cathedral of St. John the Divine.

At the banking house of Drexel, Morgan & Co. this morning no authentic information could be gained, but one of the men in Mr. Morgan's office stated that it would not surprise him in the least to find that Mr. Morgan had been merely suffering from delirium tremens and had not been hurt by Giusson. Justice Ryan refused the application, saying he had received word that the stranger's skull was fractured.

WOMEN FOUGHT FOR HIM.

Two Versions of Giuseppe's Part in a Battle Caused by Jealousy.
HANDSONE Lucia Pictono alleged in the Lee Avenue court, Brooklyn, this morning that Mrs. Angela Lillimata became jealous when her husband, Giuseppe, was spoken to by Lucia, and not only attacked her, pulling her hair, etc., but commanded Giuseppe to join in the assault, which she declared he did, though with reluctant reluctance.

Giuseppe declared that he had only tried to defend his wife from the attack, and that he was fighting about him. The case was adjourned.

CONFESSED TO FIVE MURDERS.

Victim of Conscience Surrenders to the Springfield (O.) Police.
SPRINGFIELD, O., Dec. 3.—Henry Lunderstager, a single male of forty years, went to police headquarters yesterday, declared that he was the murderer of five persons, said he was conscience-stricken, and surrendered.

All of his victims, he said, were poisoned. They were: Nora O'Neill, of Mewstown, Pa.; and Barbara Killinger, Mapleton, Pa., in 1877; John Lunderstager, his father, and Mrs. Fox colored, in 1878.

EIGHT FAMILIES IN PERIL.

Narrow Escapes from a Burning Tenement in Elizabeth.
ELIZABETH, N. J., Dec. 3.—Potter's Row, on East Grand street, in this city, an old landmark, was nearly destroyed by fire this morning, and eight families, most of them having children, were rendered homeless.

The fire was discovered in the middle of the row about 5:30 o'clock, and as the building is old and dry, it burned like tinder, the firemen only being able to save the northerly end of it.

Scenes of wild excitement prevailed, as most of the inmates were asleep at the time, and some of them only escaped in their night-shirts.

One woman, Mrs. Sarah Rodgers, who was on the point of becoming a mother, had to be carried out through the flames and smoke. She was taken to the hospital.

Only a couple of families saved anything. Those burned out are David Hill, Mrs. Cook, Nelson Branch, John Love, Charlotte Cromwell, Ann Douglas and William A. Banks.

The loss is not definitely known yet, but is said to be at least $10,000. The "Row" is over half a century old. The fire was caused by a defective flue.

WAS IT J. PIERPONT MORGAN?

Believed to Be the Episcopal Cathedral's $500,000 Benefactor.
It was rumored on Wall street to-day that J. Pierpont Morgan is the hitherto unknown donor of the $500,000 which was recently given to Bishop Potter for the new Protestant Episcopal Cathedral of St. John the Divine.

At the banking house of Drexel, Morgan & Co. this morning no authentic information could be gained, but one of the men in Mr. Morgan's office stated that it would not surprise him in the least to find that Mr. Morgan had been merely suffering from delirium tremens and had not been hurt by Giusson.

Justice Ryan refused the application, saying he had received word that the stranger's skull was fractured.

DIED IN A RESTAURANT.

Sudden Call of a Stranger in Smith & McNeil's.
A stranger entered Smith & McNeil's restaurant at 103 Washington street about 1:30 this morning and sat down at one of the tables. He had barely seated himself before he was given to Bishop Potter for the new Protestant Episcopal Cathedral of St. John the Divine.

When they started a desperate battle was fought. Morgan's friend showed that he had been roughly handled, and he was carried to the hospital. The building here was closed, and in endeavoring to get out, he was killed.

THE IMMIGRATION QUESTION.

More Discussion To-Day by the Board of Trade Committee.
The Committee of the Board of Trade and Transportation, whose meeting has been set for 3:30 o'clock this afternoon at the Board's offices, on Nassau street, will consider the advisability of recommending the exclusion of immigration from all parts of the world except North and South America.

Although at the previous meetings the five members of the Committee represented three distinct propositions, it is expected that some harmonious action will be taken to-day looking towards the settlement of this question.

One proposition has been the total and unqualified exclusion of all immigration. Another has been to restrict immigration to a certificate signed by an American Consul at one particular port in each country, showing the fitness of the bearer to be landed here.

The third proposition would, in addition, require that the immigrant give certain evidence of good character and financial independence to either of these propositions.

ONE KILLED, ANOTHER WILL DIE.

Sad Accident on the Pennsylvania Railroad in Jersey City.
An accident occurred early this morning on the trestle-work of the Pennsylvania Railroad which leads into the freight yards at the Cove in Jersey City, by which one man was instantly killed and another had both legs cut off.

A freight train was standing on the trestle-work between Grove and Henderson streets waiting to be moved into the yard.

Joseph Pearl, a brakeman, aged fifty-two years, of 238 Railroad avenue, Jersey City, was standing on one of the cars, and George A. Pearce, another brakeman, forty-two years old, of 423 Park street, Jersey City, was standing on top of another car further down.

Both men were knocked off the cars, and came against it with such force that the entire train was started.

Both men were knocked off the cars, and came against it with such force that the entire train was started.

OCEAN VOYAGERS.

Distinguished Passengers on Transatlantic Line To-Day.
Left Rev. P. L. Chapelle, Col. Theodore A. Hodge, U. S. A.; Rev. P. Dommeau, Mrs. Ira Hodge, Mrs. G. B. McCallan, Miss McCallan and Major George W. Wheeler were passengers on La Gasconne for Havre to-day.

On the Umbria for Liverpool were Baroness Weyland, Mrs. Charles H. de Longford, D. P. Thompson, United States Minister to Turkey; Light Hon. W. Liddell, Walter E. Howard, United States Consul at Cardiff; Miss Elizabeth Jessup, Count Hosen, Senator D. M. Smith and John G. Hathaway.

CAPTAIN ACCUSED OF MURDER.

Said to Have Thrown a Boy Overboard and Then Shot Him.
SAN DIEGO, Cal., Dec. 3.—Capt. John Smith, who returned last night from a cruise in the schooner Lou along the Mexican coast, was arrested on a charge of murder.

Christopher Silbey, aged fifteen, avers that he witnessed an altercation between Smith and George B. Noble, a sixteen-year-old boy, on the night of Nov. 25, and that Smith threw Noble overboard and shot him while he was struggling in the water.

WHIRLED AROUND A SHAFF.

Mechanic Mangled to Pieces at the Singer Factory in New Jersey.
ELIZABETH, N. J., Dec. 3.—As Morris Bar, a mechanic in the rumbling department of the Singer Sewing Machine Factory at this place, was assisting a belt to try a pulley caught in its setting.

He was whirled around and around the shaft. His body was mangled to pieces. He died instantly.

THE CASTLE AT LYNDHURST.

Rev. Dr. John R. Paxton, of the West Presbyterian Church; Rev. Dr. MacCracken, Chancellor of the University of the City of New York, and Rev. Dr. Hederick Terry, of the South Reformed Church, will conduct the burial service of the Protestant Episcopal Church.

The clergymen, in addition to the ritual of the Episcopal service, will offer extemporaneous prayers.

Music will be rendered by a quartet from the choir of Rev. Dr. Paxton's church, composed as follows:

Mme. Clementine De Vere Sappio, Mrs. Carl Aves, Erickson S. Bushnell and Fayne Clark. The musical numbers will comprise an opening anthem, Cardinal Newman's hymn, "Lead, Kindly Light," and the hymn, "Nearer, My God, to Thee."

There will be no formal addresses by the clergymen.

Mr. Gould's body will this afternoon be placed in the casket, which will rest on pedestals in the park on the ground floor in the corner of the house at Forty-seventh street and Fifth avenue.

After the funeral services the members of the family will take their last look at the features of the dead financier.

Tuesday morning the body will be taken to Woodlawn cemetery and placed in the family vault beside that of his wife, whose death he never ceased to mourn.

H. Q. French, the architect who designed and built the mausoleum, is to-day at the cemetery in Woodlawn, making arrangements for the interment.

Mr. George J. Gould, who, with Dr. Munn, received all callers at the house this morning, refused to make public any of the telegrams and letters of condolence received by the family, and of which there is said to be a great number.

Callers at the House.
A host of callers waited their way up the big brown steps of the house of death this morning.

They came early, and while many of them had been more or less intimate with the dead magnate, many more merely called to inquire concerning the funeral arrangements.

Dr. Munn and Judge Dillon consulted with the family this morning and decided that a guard shall be placed over the tomb for a time as was done in the case of Mrs. Gould when she died.

It was also decided to have no pall-bearers at the funeral.

Up to noon the body had not yet been embalmed, and although Undertaker Main is said to discuss the details of the preparations for burial, it is said there is little likelihood that his method of preserving the body will be adopted.

Undertaker Main said this morning that the casket selected by the family was of plain oak, covered with black broadcloth and with oxidized silver handles.

The plate will be of solid silver, and will bear this inscription:

JAY GOULD.
BORN MAY 27, 1826.
DIED DECEMBER 2, 1892.

Just who will be present at the funeral service could not be learned this morning.
